Just do a keyword search for “bank tickler,” and you’ll quickly realize that banks are still heavily reliant on manual document tracking. In fact, not too long ago we surveyed 96 bankers, and we found that almost 70% still rely on some combination of spreadsheets, core ticklers, or other manual processes. Although most banks... Opens a data file and appends the content to the current dataset, if the new data are compatible. The program will try to detect the format of the data file (native, plain text, CSV, Gnumeric, Excel, etc.).
